(3) If subsection (2) applies and the supplier has issued a GST debit note to the recipient of the supply in accordance with subsection (2) of section 32, the recipient of the supply may treat the additional GST specified in the GST debit note as input tax in the tax period in which the GST debit note is received.

(4) If a GST adjustment event occurs and the GST actually accounted for by the supplier exceeds the GST properly chargeable in respect of the supply, the supplier may treat the amount of the excess as input tax in the tax period in which the GST adjustment event occurred, but only if the supplier has issued a GST credit note to the recipient of the supply in accordance with subsection (1) of section 32.

(3) If a GST adjustment event occurs in relation to a supply, part or all of which is treated as a supply made by the recipient because of subsection (1), and the event would cause the GST actually accounted for by the recipient to exceed the GST properly chargeable in respect of the supply, the Commissioner-General may, on application in writing by the recipient, allow the recipient an input tax credit for the amount of the excess in the current tax period if, on the evidence provided, he is satisfied that the adjustment event occurred.

- (f) the acquisition or import or hiring is of a mobile phone handset, or spare parts or repair and services thereof, unless the person's taxable activity involves dealing in or hiring out such handsets and services and the handset and the spare parts were acquired for that purpose; or

- (g) the acquisition or expense relates to occupation of holiday or hotel accommodation by a director, employee or guest of the taxable person.

29. (1) Except as provided otherwise in this Act-

- (a) if all of the supplies made by a taxable person during a tax period are taxable supplies, the person is allowed input tax credits for all of the input tax paid or payable on taxable acquisitions or imports made by the person during that tax period;
- (b) If none of the supplies made by a taxable person during a tax period are taxable supplies, the person is not allowed input tax credits for the input tax payable on taxable acquisitions or imports made by the person during that period, unless with the written approval of the Commissioner-General the taxable person is deemed to be engaged in a seasonal or other business activity that by its nature results in supplies being made in a period later than acquisitions;
- (c) Except as provided otherwise, if a taxable person makes both taxable supplies and non taxable supplies during a tax period, the input tax credits allowed to the person for that tax period shall be determined as

- (i) if an acquisition or import by the person relates wholly to the making of taxable supplies, an input tax credit is allowed for the full amount of input tax payable in respect of the acquisition or import;
- (ii) if an acquisition or import by the person relates wholly to the making of supplies that are not taxable supplies, no input tax credit is allowed for the input tax payable in respect of that acquisition or import;
- (iii) for acquisitions or imports by the person that relate, whether directly or indirectly, partly to making taxable supplies and partly to making other supplies, the sum of the input tax credits allowed for such supplies or imports during the tax period is calculated according to the following formula:-

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

Where-

A is the total amount of input tax paid or payable in respect of imports or acquisitions made by the person during the period, less the input tax accounted for under subparagraphs (i) and (ii);

B is the value of all taxable supplies made by the taxable person during the period; and

C is the value of all supplies made by the taxable person during the period, other than supplies made through a taxable activity carried on by the person outside Sierra Leone.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (b) of subsection (1)–

- (a) if the fraction  $\frac{B}{C}$  in subparagraph (iii) of paragraph (c) of subsection (1) is more than 0.95, except as provided otherwise, the taxable person is allowed input tax credits for all of the input tax payable on taxable acquisitions or imports made by the person during that tax period;
- (b) if the fraction  $\frac{B}{C}$  in subparagraph (iii) of paragraph (c) of subsection (1) is less than 0.05, the taxable person is not allowed input tax credits for taxable acquisitions or imports made by the person during that tax period;
- (c) if Regulations prescribe a different method for a specified group or groups of taxable persons, to calculate the amount of input tax allowed for a tax period in which the person makes both taxable and exempt supplies, the person shall use that method to calculate the input tax credits it is allowed for that period.

(3) If subsection (3) of section 24 allows a taxable person to treat an amount as input tax in a tax period because a GST adjustment event occurred during that period in relation to an acquisition made by the person, the amount of the input tax credit the person is allowed as input tax credit is determined by reference to the extent that the person was entitled to an input tax credit for the original acquisition.

(4) If subsection (4) of section 24 allows a taxable person to treat an amount as input tax in a tax period because a GST adjustment event occurred during that period in relation to a supply made by that person, the person is entitled to an input tax credit for that amount.

(5) If, at the time the person submits a GST return for a tax period, the person does not, in relation to an acquisition or importation made in that tax period, hold the documentation referred to in subsection (6)–

- (a) the person is not allowed the input tax credit it would otherwise have been allowed for that acquisition or importation in that tax period; but
- (b) the person is allowed the input tax credit in the first subsequent tax period in which the person holds the documentation, and if the person does not hold the documentation before the end of the tax period ending 6 months after the date on which the return was due, no input tax credit is allowed for the acquisition or importation.

(6) The documentation required for the purposes of subsection (5) is–

- (a) in the case of a taxable acquisition, the GST invoice issued by the supplier for the supply;
- (b) in the case of a taxable import, a cleared bill of entry or other document prescribed under the Customs Act for the import; or
- (c) in the case of an input tax credit allowed under subsection (3) of section 22 because of a GST adjustment event for an acquisition, the GST debit note issued by the supplier in respect of that event; and
- (d) in the case of an input tax credit allowed under subsection (3) of section 22 because of a GST adjustment event for a supply, a copy of the GST credit note issued to the recipient of the supply in respect of that event.

(7) Subsection (5) does not alter the way in which the amount of an input tax credit for an acquisition or importation made in a tax period is calculated under this section.

(8) Whether or not an acquisition or importation made in a tax period relates to making a particular kind of supply should be determined on the basis of the taxable person's intention at the time of the acquisition or importation; but the taxable person shall take account of the actual use or a change in intention that occurs before the date on which the GST return for that tax period is required to be lodged.

(9) Where a person is registered after the coming into operation of this Act and makes an application in writing to the Commissioner-General within 6 months of becoming registered, the Commissioner-General may allow the person an input tax credit for taxable acquisitions or taxable imports made in the 3 months preceding the date of the registration if—

- (a) the person has the goods acquired or imported on hand at the date of the registration and has provided sufficient documentary evidence of this to the Commissioner-General;
- (b) the person provides in the opinion of the Commissioner-General, sufficient documentary evidence, including sales receipts and import documentation, to show the amount of GST that was included in the price of the acquisitions or that was paid by the person on importation;
- (c) the Commissioner-General is satisfied that the GST referred to in paragraph (b) has been accounted for by the supplier as required under this Act or paid to the National Revenue Authority at the time of import by the registrant;
- (d) the person has provided such other evidence as is necessary in the opinion of the Commissioner General, to establish the extent to which the goods acquired have been used in the registrant's taxable activity prior to the date of the registration; and
- (e) the person would have been entitled to an input tax credit if the acquisition or importation had been made when the person was registered.

(10) Where an input tax credit is allowed under subsection 9-

- (a) the amount of the input tax credit is reduced in proportion to the extent to which the thing acquired or imported was used by the registrant prior to the date of effect of the registration and to the extent that the person would not have been entitled to an input tax credit if the acquisition or importation had been made while the person was registered;
- (b) the person is not required to hold a GST invoice in relation to an acquisition for which a credit has been allowed.

(11) Where a person makes an application under subsection (9)-

- (a) the Commissioner-General shall notify the applicant of his decision within 60 days of receiving the application, and shall state the amount (if any) of the input tax credit to which the person is entitled; and
- (b) the input tax credit (if any) will be allowed in the earlier of the tax period in which the person receives the notice or the tax period ending 6 months after the date of effect of the registration.

30. For the purposes of section 29 if a non-resident principal makes an acquisition or import through a resident agent, any input tax credit allowed under that section is allowed to the resident agent and resident and not to the non-resident principal.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (1), the Commissioner General shall refund an excess within 2 months after lodgement of the GST return for the tax period if, considering the person's turnover or predicted turnover from supplies made or to be made during the period of 12 months consisting of the current month, the previous 5 months, and the following 6 months—

(5) An application under subsection (4) shall be made within 3 years from the end of the tax period to which the overpayment relates and the Commissioner-General shall make a decision in relation to the application within 30 days of the date of the application, unless on or before that time the Commissioner-General commences an audit of the taxable person in relation to that tax period.

(6) If there is an excess referred to in this section or a refund is payable to a person under this section, the Commissioner-General may apply the excess or refundable amount first towards the reduction of any arrears, interest or penalty payable by the person under this Act or against payment of any other taxes, levies or duties, including any interest or penalty, collected by the National Revenue Authority including any unpaid amounts under the repealed taxes.

(7) Notwithstanding anything in this section, if the amount of an excess to be refunded is less than Le 300,000 it shall continue to be carried forward into succeeding tax periods until it is reduced to nil or accumulates to an amount above Le 300,000.

- (c) the person has been paid a refund or allowed an input tax credit under section 41.

(2) If a person, other than a taxable person, makes a supply of goods or services and represents that GST is charged on the supply, the Commissioner-General may make an assessment of GST payable by the person in relation to that supply as if the person were a taxable person and the supply were a taxable supply.

(3) If a taxable person makes a supply of goods or services and the supply is not a taxable supply or is a taxable supply charged with GST at the rate of zero percent, and in either case, the taxable person represents that a positive rate of tax is charged on the supply, the Commissioner-General may make an assessment of GST on that person as if the supply were a taxable supply.

(4) An amount assessed under subsection (2) or (3) is treated, for the purposes of this Act, as GST payable under this Act unless, in the case of an amount assessed under subsection (3), the taxable person reasonably believed that GST should have been applied at the positive rate and has subsequently refunded to the recipient of the supply the GST charged on the supply or has otherwise satisfied the Commissioner-General that the recipient was not disadvantaged and that the taxable person was not advantaged by the incorrect charging of GST.

(5) For the purposes of making an assessment under this section, the Commissioner-General may estimate the amount of GST payable by a person to the best of his judgement based on the information available to him and such an assessment shall be made within 2 months of sufficient information being available to the Commissioner General and no more than 6 months after the conclusion of an audit of the taxable person

(6) The Commissioner-General shall serve notice of an assessment on the person assessed, stating—

- (a) the date of the assessment, the reason for the assessment, the amount of GST payable or refundable as a result of the assessment, and the basis on which that amount was determined;

- (b) the date on which any GST payable is due and payable, which shall not be more than 10 days after the date on which the notice is served; and
- (c) the time, place and manner of appealing the assessment.

(7) The Commissioner-General may, within the timeframe for an assessment under this section, amend the assessment by making such alterations or additions to the assessment as he considers necessary, and shall serve a notice of the amended assessment on the person assessed.

(8) An amended assessment is treated in all respects as an assessment under this Act.

(9) The Commissioner-General may not make an assessment, including an amended assessment—

- (a) in the case of an assessment under paragraph (a) of subsection (1), more than 3 years after the end of the tax period to which the assessment relates; or
- (b) in the case of an assessment under paragraph (c)<sup>9</sup> of subsection (1), more than 3 years after the date on which the refund was paid or, if an input tax credit was allowed, more than 6 years after the end of the tax period in which the tax credit was allowed, unless, in either case, the Commissioner General has reasonable grounds to believe that the taxable person committed fraud or wilful default in furnishing the return for the tax period or in applying for the refund.

<sup>9</sup> Reference to paragraph (c) was substituted for reference to paragraph (b) by s.10(c) of the Finance Act 2011

(10) The Commissioner-General may make an assessment at any time if the assessment is made under paragraph (b) of subsection (1), subsection (2) or (3).

(12) Nothing in this section prevents any interest or penalty payable—

(a) in respect of GST assessed under paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (1) from being computed from the original due date for payment of the GST as determined under section 38;

(b) in respect of GST assessed under paragraph (c) of subsection (1) in relation to an application for a refund, from being computed from the date on which the refund was paid; or

(c) in respect of GST assessed under subsection (2) or (3), from being computed from the date on which payment of the GST would have been due under section 38 if the supply had been a taxable supply.

43. (1) If a supplier has incorrectly treated a taxable supply as an exempt or zero-rated supply because of misrepresentation or fraud by the recipient of the supply and the supplier has established beyond reasonable doubt that it carried out due diligence to assure itself of the authenticity of the recipient's claim and to detect and prevent the fraud or misrepresentation, the Commissioner-General may assess the recipient of the supply for payment of the GST due in respect of the supply, including any interest or penalty payable as a result of the late payment of the GST, and the assessment is treated as an assessment of GST payable by the recipient for the purposes of this Act, whether or not the recipient is a taxable person.

(2) An assessment under subsection (1) shall be made to the best judgement of the Commissioner-General based on the information available to him and such an assessment shall be made within 2 months of sufficient information being available to the Commissioner General and no more than 6 months after the conclusion of an audit of the taxable person.

(3) The Commissioner-General shall serve notice of the assessment on the recipient which shall not be more than 30 days after the date on which the notice is served and specifying—

- (a) the date of the assessment, the reason for the assessment;
- (b) the amount of GST payable or refundable as a result of the assessment;
- (c) the date on which that GST is due and payable; and
- (d) the time, place and manner in which an appeal against the assessment may be made.

(4) Subsection (1) does not preclude the Commissioner General from recovering from the supplier the GST, interest or penalty due in respect of the supply and—

- (a) the Commissioner-General may recover part of the GST payable on the supply from the supplier and part from the recipient; but
- (b) the Commissioner-General shall not recover more than the total amount of GST, interest, and penalty payable in relation to the supply.

(5) If a supplier who incorrectly treated a taxable supply as an exempt or zero-rated supply because of misrepresentation or fraud by the recipient of the supply has paid to the Commissioner-General any amount of the GST, interest or penalty in respect of the supply, the supplier may seek to recover that amount from the recipient of the supply under civil law.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in this Act, if the Commissioner-General is satisfied that a scheme has been entered into or carried out and —

- (a) a person has obtained a tax benefit in connection with the scheme in a manner that constitutes a misuse or abuse of this Act; and
- (b) having regard to the substance of the scheme, it would be concluded that the person or one of the persons who entered into or carried out the scheme did so for the sole or dominant purpose of enabling the person to obtain a tax benefit, the Commissioner-General may determine the liability of the person who has obtained the tax benefit as if the scheme had not been entered into or carried out.

(3) For the purposes of determining a person's liability under subsection (2), and ensuring the prevention or reduction of the tax benefit, the Commissioner-General may do any of the following: —

- (a) treat a particular event that actually happened as not having happened;
- (b) treat a particular event that did not actually happen as having happened and, if appropriate, treat the event as-
  - (i) having happened at a particular time; and
  - (ii) having involved a particular action by a particular person;

(c) treat a particular event that actually happened as-

- (i) having happened at a time different from the time it actually happened; or
- (ii) having involved a particular action by a particular person (whether or not the event actually involved any action by that person).

(4) If the Commissioner-General makes a determination under subsection (2), he shall notify the person of his determination either by serving a notice of the determination on the person or by issuing an assessment to the person in relation to one or more tax periods.

(5) An assessment under subsection (4) shall be made to the best of his judgement based on the information available to him and such an assessment shall be made within 2 months of sufficient information being available to the Commissioner General and no more than 6 months after the conclusion of an audit of the taxable person.

(2) No assessment made, issued or executed under this Act may be—

(a) quashed or deemed to be void or voidable for want of form; or
